

The Special Gift

By Deni Marinska

Who said the sky has to be blue?
Who said that the grass has to be green?
Who said that elephants can't fly?
Who said that clouds aren't made of cotton candy?

I say that anything is possible
When you use that special gift you've got
The sky could be purple; the grass could be magenta;
Elephants can fly, and cotton candy is the main ingredient in clouds.

Anything is possible when you use that gift you've got.
Tigers could sing beautifully
Spitting Cobras could spit out fruit punch
And trees could talk.

What's this gift I'm talking about?
It's a special gift that's found in each one of us
It is found at the top of your head,
It's called...Creativity.
